Gloucester Diocese is proud to own what is considered to be one of the premier Diocesan retreat houses in the country.

Glenfall House is a beautiful Regency style house set in its own extensive landscaped gardens. It enjoys an enviable rural location, yet is surprisingly close to the centre of Cheltenham.

The aims of Glenfall House are to provide an attractive meeting place primarily for the Diocese of Gloucester where people may gather to develop their Christian life and ministry, and to provide a Conference Centre for charities and other groups working in and for the Community.

The house is well suited to a host of activities including conferences, residential courses, staff training, management meetings, summer schools and social events. Glenfall also offers a small programme of Retreats and Days of Reflection which lies at the heart of the mission of Christian hospitality.

The positive influence of the house benefits those who step out of their busy lives for thoughts to be gathered, discussions to take place and plans to be made.

CORPORATE SUPPORTERS OF GLENFALL HOUSE

CORPORATE SUPPORTERS part of the
FRIENDS OF GLENFALL HOUSE

We are very fortunate in Gloucester Diocese to have our own retreat house and conference centre—generously donated by the Sisters of the Community of St Peter the Apostle and renovated in the early 90's using a legacy from Miss Dinah Albright.

With the support of an active Friends Group the house benefits from extra features which provide for the comfort of those who stay here.

We welcome people who wish to share in the pleasure of being at Glenfall House and who enjoy working together to generate enthusiasm and support for our retreat house.

Information about Glenfall can be found on our website
